

First major international rogaine prior to first World Champs in 1992

In August 1990, Canadians Kitty Jones, Andy Newson and course setter Jim Force organised the Most Awesome Rogaine at Bobs Creek, south of Calgary, Alberta in conjunction with and directly after the Asia-Pacific Orienteering Championship, itself an Australian invention. At this event, international rogaining reached its pinnacle, with 20 different countries represented, including 57 Australians in a total of 136 teams. Winners were Brian May and Francis Falardeau of Canada.
